Baltimore Wants to Take Part in Games

At the last moment Bultimore is trying to get into the intercity amateur baseball series between Washington and Richmond, two games of which will be played in Washington Labor Day and two here the following Saturday.

A telegram was received last night stating that the triangular series would be acceptable to Washington, and asking what Richmond's position was. C. W. Enton, president of the Amateur Commission, was unable to make definite reply because of the absence of Dr. W. H. Purker, manager of the Battle Axe team, from the city, Nothing will be done without consuiting Dr. Parker, though Mr. Enion stated that so far as he was concerned he felt that Richmond had little to fear from Baltimore.

Final action will be taken at a conference to he held in Washington next Monday, when the local commission will talk the question over with the Washington authorities.
